RV Roadside Repair Commercial Buses Motorcoaches South Georgia Bennett Commercial charter buses, tour buses, and fleet motor coaches present many of the same roadside breakdown scenarios as motorhomes, with the added dimension of carrying passengers who may be on a time-sensitive itinerary. Bennett Mobile Truck Repair's RV roadside repair service extends to commercial buses and motor coaches, providing on-site diesel diagnostics, mechanical repair, and chassis service for these vehicles along the I-75 corridor in South Georgia and North Florida. One memorable review from Bennett Mobile Truck Repair's customer record describes a toterhome at a racetrack whose levelers would not retract. The caller reached Adam at 5 PM on a Sunday, and he arrived within 30 minutes, working on the ground in the dark to resolve the issue and get the vehicle on the road. While a toterhome is not a standard charter bus, this response profile, Sunday afternoon call answered, rapid response, working in difficult conditions to solve the problem, reflects the same service commitment applied to any large vehicle emergency. Commercial bus operators who travel the I-75 corridor through South Georgia as part of regular routes or charter schedules benefit from knowing that a mobile diesel mechanic with experience on large diesel platforms is available 24/7 within a 60-mile radius of Valdosta. The alternative for a bus operator facing a breakdown on the shoulder of I-75 near Valdosta is typically a lengthy wait for a tow and then an unpredictable wait at a commercial truck shop that may or may not have experience with the Mobile RV Repair specific bus chassis.
