- One preferred spot is Crescent Lake, aka "the BoardWalk area," in between EPCOT and Hollywood Studios.

I think some individuals would certainly put The Cake Bake Shop in a somewhat greater tier than the various other BoardWalk dining establishments, but it isn't sufficient to close the void with Private yacht and Beach. You're never ever greater than 0.4 miles from the other two resorts, and all guests have equivalent access to all dining establishments at Walt Disney World. If you intended to split hairs, BoardWalk Inn most likely has the most effective place of the three, but this isn't really something to pick the hotel for. Generally, you're getting over 3 resorts worth of hassle-free dining choices with this area. Altogether, absolutely nothing concerning these notices truly moves points one means or the other for me, but it's worth taking note of when you're planning to invest $500+ per evening for these hotels. They're comparable in price, style, and area-- so what sets one apart from the other?
