10 Must-Dos When In Bruges

A timeless spectacle, Bruges is a charming city full of medieval flavour. Its architectural treasures lure the eye, revealing a city of rich history. Serene canals and tight cobbled streets seize your imagination, enticing you to explore more and more.1. Markt SquareWatch the world go by in one of the Markt Squares multitude of cafes and restaurants. A vibrant open area, relax with a coffee as the rat race scuttles around you.2. masai mara group joining safari Basilica of the Holy BloodUpon homecoming from the Crusades, the count of Flanders returned with what was believed to be the blood of Christ. Unopened to this day, the relic remains in this 12th century chapel.3. Groeningen MuseumBruges is blessed with many fine art museums, in particular the Groeningen, with Belgian and Dutch paintings including the works of Jan Van Eyck and Hieronymous Bosch.4. Church of Our LadyBelieved to be the only sculpture to have left Italy in his lifetime, Michelangelos Madonna is a beautiful marble figure brought to Bruges in 1506 and housed ever since in the Church of Our Lady.5. Memling MuseumOriginally built as a medieval hospital, the Memling Museum offers a fascinating insight into Bruges ancient history. Today, the museum is part of the St Johns Hospital complex.6. Zand FeastsJuly, August and September are host to these ever popular flea markets. Crowds flock to inspect the arts, crafts and souvenirs on offer at the lively bazaars.7. The Belfry

One of the great landmarks of the city, the 83 meter high Belfry tower dominates the main city square. Dating back to 1240, the original tower was destroyed by fire and subsequently rebuilt. Climb the 366 steps for a magnificent view of the city.8. The CanalsSometimes referred to as The Venice of the North, Bruges is a myriad of canal networks. Originally an important trade route, nowadays the canals are used solely for tourism and are a great way of seeing the town from a different perspective.9. The MinnewaterKnown locally as The Lake of Love, this enchanting lake stands at the entrance to the city. Elegant swans adorn the lake which affords commanding panoramic views across the city. During the summer, pop concerts play in the adjacent park, luring the crowds from near and afar.10. The BeguinageIf the busy and overcrowded city centre streets become too much, tranquillity can be yours in Masai Mara group joining the garden of the Beguinage, a monastery for the Benedictine sisters who still live there today.