

Advanced and professional violin players in Singapore have specific needs that a general music shop cannot address. LVL Music Academy, through the expertise of head luthier Alan Senejani, is equipped to serve the requirements of serious players who need fine instruments, precise adjustments, specialist repairs, and informed advice on the instruments and equipment that will support their professional work. For professional players who are looking for a fine handcrafted violin or an upgrade from their current instrument, Alan can discuss the tonal qualities, construction characteristics, and playing properties of instruments in LVL's collection in the technical depth that a serious musician requires. His assessment of an instrument's potential for a given player's technique and repertoire goes beyond anything a non-luthier retailer can offer. Professional players who bring instruments to Alan for maintenance or repair consistently describe his work as exceptional. His ability to make precise adjustments to set-up that improve projection, response, and tonal quality in a performance instrument reflects a depth of skill developed through years of dedicated craft practice.
